WASHED KALAUPAPA
BULKHEAD AWAY

HEAVY SEA REPORTED TO HAVE
WASHED THE CEMENT WALL
AWAY AT LEPER SETTLEMENT

The landing at Kalaupapa has suffered by the heavy weather of last week. The cement bulk head which was used as a means of shelter to enable the boats to make landings at Kalaupapa was undermined by the heavy seas and washed away. The bulkhead collapsed last Thursday.

News of the accident was brought by the steamer Hawaii which arrived Saturday evening from her run to Lahaina, Maui and Molokai ports. Purser Jerry Birmingham says that so far as he was able to ascertain no body was on the cement wall at the time of the accident and no body was hurt.

The idea of the force of the sea can be gained from the statement that when the steamer Hawaii was at Kalaupapa last Tuesday the sea was comparatively smooth. Two days later the sea had increased to such an extent that it washed away the bulkhead.

It will require some time to replace the bulk head. Until the damage has been repaired, boats will find the landing of freight and passengers at the Settlement rather a difficult task in heavy weather. At best even with the bulkhead as protection, the landing at Kalaupapa is bad and now that the bulk-head has been washed away, landings which under ordinary circumstances would not have been considered serious can probably not be attempted.

The weather is good now however and it is thought that the Hawaii will be able to make a landing tomorrow on her regular run to windward Molokai ports. Should heavy weather set in however before the bulk head will have been completed, and continue for any length of time, some classes of supplies at the settlement might run short.

A WONDERFUL
PRAIRIE CAVERN

ONE OF THE NATURAL CURIOSITIES OF THE PRAIRIE REGION OF OKLAHOMA.

At a spot eleven miles southeast of this place, says the Oklahoma Capital, in the level prairie upland, is an opening about forty feet in diameter and sixty feet in depth. By clinging to its rocky and precipitous walls a person may descend to the bottom and there find the openings to two caves, one leading westward and the other to the east. For years this cave has been known as Rock Prairie cave. It is one of the most striking natural curiosities in the Chickasaw Nation. The caves are of unknown length, and through one rushes a subterranean stream of great depth in places and of icy coldness. Exploring parties have ventured into these labyrinthine for hundreds of yards, but the danger of becoming lost has prevented a thorough examination of the underground passages.

The cave leading westward is easiest of access and contains a number of spacious chambers. One room is about seventy feet square and fifty feet from the floor to the ceiling. The floor is constructed with huge boulders. The darkness and stillness are intense. Strange parties sometimes go there and with a large bowlful of a table eat their lunch in the glare of torches that cast uncanny shadows along the massive walls.

Timid persons hesitate in venturing into the depths of the eastern cave. The passage slants downward at an angle that compels the explorer to crawl and slip and slide for nearly 100 feet before reaching a spot where a person may stand upright and walk safely. From the darkness echoes the sound of rushing water, which later is found to be a stream which runs from eight to thirty feet in width and from six inches to many feet in depth. Men have waded in the stream until the water reached their chins and then gone in a boat to points where they were unable to touch bottom with the longest oars. A farmer carried his boat into the cave several years ago to follow the stream to its end. At a depth estimated to be 200 feet below the surface of the ground is a natural bridge formed by a huge stone that fell across the stream. The water plunges underneath this bridge like a mill race. A boat can be pulled over the bridge, however, and landed on the other side. About 100 feet below the bridge the stream widens into a broad, deep pool, with a high vaulted roof. Beautiful stalagmites are stalactites adorn this chamber. Two hundred feet below this pool the passage is difficult. It is claimed that this cave has been explored for a mile.

The stream is believed to find its outlet at a spring about three miles from the entrance to the cave. This spring is of great size and volume and flows with remarkable swiftness. In rainy seasons the spring boils and gushes as if choked with the flood of water that pours from its mouth. The stream in Rock Prairie cave rises when there is a heavy rainfall in the surrounding country, and the increased flow of both spring and stream at such times is taken as evidence that they are connected.

WATERSPOUT'S ROTARY SPEED.
The rotation of a waterspout at the surface of the sea has been estimated at 364 miles an hour, or nearly six miles a minute.

ANOTHER SWAMI
FROM THE ORIENT

ONE MORE HINDOO MONK COMES TO SWAP EASTERN PHILOSOPHY
FOR WESTERN WHEREWITHAL

SAN FRANCISCO, January 8.—Swami Trigunatita, a distinguished Hindoo savant, arrived in San Francisco yesterday on the America Maru, direct from the Rama Krishna monastery at Calcutta, India, to make a pilgrimage around the world that will occupy from three to five years time. He will remain in San Francisco for some weeks teaching the philosophy of the Vedanta to the followers of the cult in this city and then resume his journey. For the present he is staying at the residence of Dr. M. H. Logan of 770 Oak street, who is the president of the local society and at whose residence the local society holds its weekly meetings.

Swami Trigunatita is a man of about 40 years of age and said to be a learned scholar and one of the most able of the teachers of Hindoism. He is of medium height, has intelligent features and speaks English perfectly. His costume yesterday was a long flowing robe of some rich brown material fastened at the waist with a richly embroidered sash. On his head he wore a high turban of yellow color. He is most gracious in manner, an entertaining conversationalist and is quite ready to talk of his philosophy. He is a strict vegetarian as are most of the Hindoo monks although he explained that it was from choice and was not a part of the creed he represents. The monks it might also be added are unmarried.

The San Francisco Vedanta Society has a membership of about 100 and is one of several societies throughout the United States. In San Antonio valley in Santa Clara county there is a place where many of the students go for some weeks each year to indulge in reflection and thought, and to study the tenets of their faith. This place is known as Shanti-Asra, which in Sanskrit means "Peace Retreat." Swami Trigunatita will likely visit this place while he is in California.

TWO STATES OUT OF ONE TERRITORY

SANTA FE, N. M., Jan. 2.—W. S. Hopewell, chairman of the Territorial Central Committee of the Democratic party in New Mexico, announced himself today in favor of admitting Arizona and New Mexico as one State, with three Representatives in Congress, the capital to be fixed for ten years at Santa Fe. He had just returned from Chicago, where he had an interview with Senator W. H. Andrews, a close friend of Senator Quay, and his announcement today in favor of joint statehood is supposed to represent the views of Senator Quay. In case it should not be practicable to force the omnibus statehood bill through the Senate.

President Roosevelt also declared to New Mexico workers for statehood that he was in favor of joint statehood for Arizona and New Mexico. Hopewell says a bill effecting the merging of the two Territories into one State will be introduced next week.

VENEZUELA.

There is room for division of sentiment concerning the dispute and the manner in which the European powers are compelling a settlement. The present government of Venezuela does not command the highest degree of sympathy and respect. It is dictatorial, and is opposed by a large part of the Venezuelan people. Its conduct has not been such to commend it to the world. It ought to pay its debts and discharge all legitimate obligations which rest upon it. It cannot hope to find in the Monroe doctrine or in the United States a screen against the consequences of ill doing. On the other hand, it undoubtedly seems to some rather harsh to expect payment of claims so peremptorily at the very moment when Venezuela is embarrassed with the results of a costly war, and it may seem arbitrary to do so by such means. Other countries including some in Europe, have delayed to meet their undoubted obligations and to furnish indemnity for their misdeeds, and yet have not been subjected to force, as Venezuela now is. The question may not illogically be raised why Venezuela should be treated more harshly than other equally bad offenders.—New York Tribune.

BITTER ARRAIGNMENT OF THE
MONROE DOCTRINE WHICH IS CALLED THE MONROE "FICTION"

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—Officials of the Foreign Office in the Wilhelmstrasse, in interviews given out to German correspondents, are extremely bitter over the defeat of the German policy in Venezuela. It would be an interesting symposium, to say the least, to collect the venomous editorials which have appeared during the last two weeks in the German press directed against United States interference in Venezuela, as it is called, although there is nothing to indicate that any other than moral influence was exerted in Washington to prevent the powers stepping upon the "live Monroe doctrine" wire. These arraignments do not stop at scornful reference to the Monroe doctrine "fiction," but proceed to attack President Roosevelt, questioning his motives in appealing to the powers to submit the issues to The Hague tribunal and charging the United States with selfish motives to gather the South American republics under a union hat when the proper moment arrives.

A fierce storm is being raised in the press against the Government for yielding so easily to the proposals of the British allies and for being "frightened into giving up its plan" by the jingoistic American press. The Dresdener Nachrichten comes out with strong philippic against American jingoism, against the Monroe doctrine and against the "absurdity of Washington's presumption that it is called upon to protect all South American countries against European aggressions. The same journal calls for a European alliance to resist this American danger. But what the Dresdener Nachrichten says is mild compared with some of the bombastic arraignments of the Monroe doctrine and the German Government's weakness in not carrying out its original designs which may be read in the conservative and democratic press.

CRUZON'S BREAK.

LONDON, January 1.—Lord Cruzon has brought on himself the wrath of the furniture dealers of Great Britain by a disparaging allusion in his speech at the opening of the art exhibition at Delhi, on December 30 to "Tottenham Court road furniture, its cheap Italian monies and flaming Brussels carpets." and appealing to the Maharajahs to furnish their palaces with Indian work rather than these British products. Sir John Blundell Maple, member of Parliament, who is the head of a large firm of furniture dealers of the Tottenham road, leads the attack, and clinches his indictment with showing a letter dated Calcutta, from Lord Cruzon, ordering carpets and requesting the order to be duplicated yearly.

CAPTAIN VON OTTERENDORP.

Captain K. Van Otterendorp of the Sonoma, one of the most picturesque and commanding figures in the merchant marine of the Pacific, has resigned his position and will retire from active life on the sea. He has a handsome home at Alameda, where he intends to spend the remainder of his days in quiet with the members of his family. For fifty-four years Captain Van Otterendorp has led a seafaring life. He was born January 16, 1831, and went to sea in 1848. In 1857 he joined the North German Lloyd service, on its inception that year, and was with the company until 1876, spending some of the time as superintendent of construction of the company's steamships on the Clyde and remaining with the German steamship company until he became the commander of its Atlantic fleet. He resigned in 1876, and from then until 1885 he was a director and manager of the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company, doing business on this coast. In 1885 he entered the service of the Oceanic Company as commander of the Zealandia, on the Sydney route, later taking the Alameda and still later the big liner Sonoma. Throughout all his long service on the sea there has been no accident resulting in loss of life on any of his steamers.
